

Between Sandy and the elections, I know this is a crazy time... I got away with just no power for a few days. My thoughts go to all of you who weren't as lucky.

I just wanted to tell you I am off to California for the rest of the week. For those of you in the San Francisco/Bay Area, it is my honor to have been invited to deliver the keynote address at the Interdisciplinary Conference on Conscience, organized by Stanford University's Europe Center.

The event, which runs from Wednesday evening, November 7th, through Friday, November 9th, will gather academics in the fields of history, literature, religious studies, psychology, and philosophy, to answer the following question: "What is conscience, what was conscience, and what is its future?"

The event is free and open to the public, but an RSVP is requested.

- Wednesday, November 7 - Opening event: 6:00pm: Reception. 6:30-8:00 p.m.: Screening of "My Neighbor My Killer". Oksenberg Conference Room, Encina Hall Central, 3rd floor.
- Friday, November 9th - 4:45-6:45 p.m.: Keynote address. Bechtel Conference Center, Encina Hall, 616 Serra Street, Stanford University, Stanford, CA 94305.

Please come!

Warmly,

Anne

On est tous un peu débordés avec Sandy et les élections... A part une coupure d'électricité de quelques jours, je n'ai pas été touchée par l'ouragan. Mes pensées vont vers tous ceux qui n'ont pas eu cette chance.

Si vous êtes dans la région de San Francisco, je serai à l'Université de Stanford pour le reste de la semaine, pour délivrer le discours de clôture de la Conférence Interdisciplinaire sur la Conscience.

Pour plus d'informations voir ci-dessus.

En espérant vous y voir!

Bien à vous,

Anne
